SUBCHAPTER 1

GENERAL PROVISIONS

§17-1724-1 Purpose. This chapter identifies and describes the types of income which shall be considered in determining an individual's or family's eligibility and coverage in the medical assistance program.
[Eff 08/01/94] (Auth: HRS §346-53) (Imp: HRS §346-53; 42 C. F.R. §431.10)

§17-1724-2 Definitions. As used in this chapter:
"Earned income" means cash received or available to be received by the family which require some activity on the part of the family to produce. Examples of earned income include, but shall not be limited to, wages, jury duty income excluding reimbursement for transportation and meals; and self-employment income from the sale of blood, blood plasma, and parts of the body.

"Employer funded" means the employer is paying the temporary disability insurance benefit directly to the individual or is paying premiums to a third party.

"Full-time employed" means an individual who is employed a minimum of one hundred thirty hours a month.

"Nonrecurring lump sum income" means income that would not normally be repeated or a cumulative amount received or available to be received by an individual. Examples of nonrecurring lump sum income include, but shall not be limited to, lump sum payments, annual tax refunds defined as income, retroactive social security benefits, retroactive earned income, insurance settlements, or intermittent income. Educational loans, grants and scholarships shall not be considered nonrecurring lump sum income.

"Self-employment" means the performance of services or sale of goods by an individual or a group of individuals who have the legal right to determine what must be done and how it must be done and who are not subject to the will and control of an employer.

"Student" means a child under age nineteen enrolled in a public or private elementary, secondary school, or in a program of an equivalent level of vocational or technical training, or officially released by the department of education and being provided an education in the home, and a child under eighteen years

UNOFFICIAL

§17-1724-45

- (1) When determining income for a month prior to the current month, the actual income received within that month shall be considered income for that month.
 - (2) When determining income for the current month, income already received, in addition to any income anticipated to be received within the current month, shall be considered income for that month.
 - (3) When determining income for a future month, income anticipated shall be calculated by one of the following methods:
 - (A) Weekly income shall be multiplied by $4\frac{1}{3}$ to convert to monthly income;
 - (B) Bi-weekly income shall be multiplied by $2\frac{1}{6}$ to convert to monthly income;
 - (C) The income received in the month immediately prior to the current month can be used for the projection, when no significant fluctuation is anticipated; or
 - (D) An average of the immediately prior three months can be utilized in the absence of any factors which will significantly fluctuate income within the period to be certified.
- (b) A prospective period of not more than six months shall be used to compute monthly income of any individual or a family.
- (c) For income of relatives, section 17-1724-46 shall apply. [Eff 08/01/94] (Auth: HRS §346-14) (Imp: 42 C.F.R. §435.831)

SUBCHAPTER 5

AVAILABILITY OF INCOME FOR SUPPORT

§17-1724-45 Purpose. The purpose of this subchapter is to describe the persons whose income are considered available for support of applicants and recipients in the medical assistance only programs. [Eff 08/01/94] (Auth: HRS §346-53) (Imp: HRS §346-29)

UNOFFICIAL

§17-1724-46

§17-1724-46 Availability of income. (a) The income of spouses living in the same household shall be considered available to each other, whether or not actually contributed.

(b) When spouses cease to live together due to the institutionalization of one spouse, only the income actually contributed from one spouse to the other shall be considered available to the receiving spouse, as of the month of separation.

(c) An individual receiving home and community based waiver services or hospice services shall be considered institutionalized and separated from the individual spouse, even if they are physically living together. The provisions of subsection (b) therefore apply to the individual and the individual's spouse.

(d) If both spouses apply or are eligible as aged, blind, or disabled and the spouses cease to live together for reasons other than the institutionalization of one spouse, their income shall be considered available to each other for the month of separation and the six months following that month. If the mutual consideration of income causes the spouses to lose eligibility as a couple, their income will be considered according to subsection (e).

(e) If only one spouse in a couple applies or is eligible, or both spouses apply and are not eligible as a couple, and they cease to live together for reasons other than institutionalization, only the income of the ineligible spouse that is actually contributed to the eligible spouse, beginning with the month after the month of separation, shall be considered available to the eligible spouse.

(f) When determining the eligibility of a child under eighteen applying for or receiving medical assistance only coverage as a blind or disabled individual:

- (1) If the child is living with a parent or the spouse of a parent, the income of that parent or of that spouse of the parent shall be considered available to the child, whether or not actually contributed;
- (2) If the child ceases to live with a parent or the spouse of a parent, only the income of that parent or spouse that is actually contributed shall be considered available to the child, beginning with the month after the month of separation. This provision applies even if the child returns to the household for periodic visits; or

§17-1724-51

(3) The provisions of paragraphs (1) and (2) apply to a child under nineteen living in the same household.

(g) In families which include children under nineteen, the income of parents, natural, legal, and adoptive, shall be considered available to their children. If a minor with income is included in the applicant or recipient household, the minor's income is considered in the determination of eligibility. If the minor is not included in the applicant or recipient household, the minor's income is not considered in the determination of eligibility.

(h) For children covered under a State adoption agreement, the income of the adoptive parent shall not be considered available to the child when determining eligibility for medical assistance only.

(i) The income of a parent or legal guardian shall be used to determine the QUEST eligibility of an individual age eighteen but less than age twenty-one, who is claimed as a federal or state tax dependent by the parent or legal guardian. §§17-1724-47 to 17-1724-50 (Reserved).

SUBCHAPTER 6

AVAILABILITY AND VERIFICATION OF INCOME

§17-1724-51 Availability and verification of income. (a) All individuals shall apply for and develop potential sources of income.

(b) The department shall deny or terminate medical assistance only when the individual fails to apply for and develop potential sources of income and fails to provide the department with verification to determine the amount of the income.

(c) When the department determines that an individual or family has failed to cooperate in providing information, supported by documents to determine eligibility, the individual or family shall be ineligible for medical assistance only. Failure to cooperate includes, but is not limited to failure to
